

INDICTMENTS RETURNED

Against Three Persons By
Grand Jury Tuesday

Elva L. Loney Apprehended
On A Charge Of Perjury

And Gave Bond Late At Night
In The Sum Of $1,000

Alleged That He Didn't Tell Truth On Witness Stand

The Other Indictments Are Not Made Public

The grand jury of the February term of common pleas court reported to Judge Jewell late Tuesday afternoon.

Three indictments were returned against three persons, but none of the indictments were made public at the time for the reason that the persons against whom indictments were returned had not been apprehended.

Late Tuesday night the first person against whom an indictment was returned was arrested by Sheriff Woon-son. It was late in the evening when the sheriff apprehended Elva L. Loney at his home west of Fredericktown.

Loney was indicted for perjury. It is alleged that at the November term of common pleas court Loney was defendant in a case in which Johnson & Crowell were plaintiffs. It is alleged that Loney did not tell the true state of affairs when he was on the witness stand and there was quite a sensational scene in common pleas court when Lot C. Stillwell, attorney for Loney, withdrew from the case, stating that his client was not telling the truth on the witness stand.

As the outcome of this case the indictment for perjury was returned by the grand jury.

Loney was brought to Mt. Vernon by Sheriff Woonson where his bond was fixed at $1,000 by the common pleas court. The defendant immediately gave bond with John Jones and S. G. Dowds as sureties and was released from custody.

The other indictments returned by the grand jury are against persons not in Mt. Vernon at the present time.
The indictments are all for felonies.

The grand jury investigated 25 cases and examined 39 witnesses and as stated before returned three indictments against three persons.

TIGHTER Will Be Trousers And Coats Will Be Shorter

Cleveland, Feb. 12—Trousers tighter than ever; coats shortened and close fitting—these are the 1913 spring styles promised to those men who plan to dress in the mode, according to delegates to the annual convention of the National Association of Merchant Tailors of America, which opened here today.

Thin men and fat men will have trouble with the new fashions; only the athletic ones will be in their glory.
Delegates say this is a tribute to the vastly increasing number of athletic-looking, well-built American men.

For the first time in the association's history, women tailors will attend. It is said that one idea that will be worked out will be that of tailoring men's and women's suits of the same cloth. That is a man and wife will be provided with uniform suits of brown, or blue, or black, or any other color they may decide. Eight hundred tailors are expected to attend.

MEET

At Police Station And Denounce Each Other As Frauds

(Mansfield News)
Dark, threatening clouds, one a big one and the other a little one, were hovering over the police station this afternoon when the Rev. Emory Cain, whom the police designated as the Little Negro and Brother Thomas, whom they designated as the Big Negro, met and accused each other of being frauds and grafters. Each colored man dropped into town today and each began soliciting funds for an industrial school he claimed to be conducting for colored children. Rev.
Emory Cain claimed to have a school at Indianapolis and Brother Thomas said he had one down on the Ohio.

The Rev. Emory Cain visited some of the manufacturers today and succeeded in securing donations. Soon after the B. N. dropped in at the same office and when he found the L. N. had beat him to it, Brudder Thomas made a holler and complained at the police station that the L. N. was a fraud.
Officer Beam went to the Carlton hotel and found the L. N. there with his wife and another "cullud" lady. They had engaged a room and were eating their meals in the room. The L. N. was brought to the station and he and the B. N. exposed each other.

The B. N. said the L. N.'s school was a front and that the L. N. was a bigger one. Then the L. N. came back at him and reminded Brudder Thomas that he, the Rev. Emory Cain, had run Brudder Thomas away from his home when he was calling on the Rev. Mr. Cain's wife. The B. N., admitted he had called on Sister Cain and had been ordered away but he reminded the Rev. Emory Cain he had later received an invitation to call again. The B. N. said the L. N. was wanted at Indianapolis for fraud. Upon this the L. N. pulled his coat and told the B. N. he would give him a beating.

"You know what they do to a tomatoe before they can them, don't you?" the B. N. asked the little one. "Well, that's what I'll do to you." The case was settled by both the B. N. and the L. N. being ordered out of town. When departing the L. N. asked the B. N. what train he was going to take, telling him he would meet him there.

Wants A Divorce—

To secure a divorce and other relief from his wife, Maude Maxwell, D. Ora Maxwell has filed suit in probate through his attorney, W. J. Bissman.
The parties were married December 6, 1911, and no children were born.

Mr. Maxwell says his wife has been guilty of extreme cruelty and that she continually endeavored to humiliate and embarrass him in his employment by charging him with drunkenness and disorderly conduct during and atter hours of employment, making the charges to his employer and in the presence of his neighbors.

He further says she neglected her household duties and that each have children of a prior marriage and that she failed to take care of them and to keep his and their home clean. He says she rendered their home as a place unsuitable to live.

Further he says he fully supported their home and family and that he has conducted himself as faithful and dutiful husband. He alleges she left him in the middle of June, 1912, and has since refused to communicate with him.— Mansfield Shield.

mon pleas on Tuesday in the Case of Emma M. Worley vs. John Q. Worley allowed the plaintiff alimony in the sum of $2 per week, commencing on February 15, 1913. Both the plaintiff and defendant in the case are nearly 70 years of age.

No Court Until Monday—
Shortly before noon Wednesday, Judge Jewell adjourned common pleas court until next Monday morning at 9 o'clock at which time the first case to be taken up will be that of the Camp Glass Co. vs. the Upham Gas Co.
